

A Century of Educating Leaders

The United States Army War College is dedicated to the understanding, practice and teaching of effective leadership. It has produced many of this nation's premier strategic thinkers including General Dwight D. Eisenhower, General George S. Patton, General Richard Myers, and General Raymond Odierno. Now, this same caliber of education and insight is available to select groups of business leaders through a three-day strategic immersion experience called Strategic Leader Staff Ride. Facilitated by U.S. Army War College faculty and utilizing the same methods provided to current students, participants gain insight to the strategic options and challenges relevant to both the U.S. Military and today's corporate environment.

"I think there is so much relevance to the battle here that took place at Gettysburg and the personalities of the commanders and the strategy involved and it has a lot of application to what we deal with in corporate America, quite frankly."

Executive Vice President and 2011 participant

Staff Ride

The ability to lead with confidence during volatile, uncertain, complex and ambiguous times has never been more critical than today. Whether captains of business and industry or champions of the public sector, leading during challenging times requires the inculcation of a mind-set change – a turning point for honing critical thinking skills to drive and deliver success.

STRATEGIC LEADER STAFF RIDE

An Ultimate Mind-Expanding Experience

This unique immersion program will take you from the barracks to the battlefield. A customized curriculum provides the framework for the most intellectually-stimulating and relevant topics suited to your select group and your desired outcomes. Central to this extraordinary mind-expanding experience is a tour of the Gettysburg battle sites, long considered to be the turning point of the Civil War.

Decision at Gettysburg: The Penultimate Lesson

Using the battlefield as a learning laboratory, military historians and leadership specialists make the human dimensions come alive. By recognizing the strategic dilemmas facing leaders of the military and business, Gettysburg National Military Park becomes a tool for learning how to identify and address leadership challenges.

A 3-day seminar designed to build leadership and teamwork

The program can be customized to meet the specific needs of any group. Sample agenda below.

- Day 1 Dinner & discussion covering the Strategic Leadership Staff Ride concept, the U.S. Army War College & participants' interests
- Day 2 Strategic leadership & decision-making lab on the Gettysburg Battlefield
- Day 3 Strategic topical seminars facilitated by U.S. Army War College faculty
